The SOURCE: Search for funding opportunities as well as sign up to receive biweekly announcements regarding a host of new and upcoming fellowships and awards

GRAPES: UCLA's extramural support database contains information on over 500 private and publicly funded awards, fellowships, and internships and advance search options to tailor your search to your specific needs.

IRIS: Another huge database of fellowships, awards, and internships maintained by the University of Illinois with a host of search options that allow you to match funds by research area or demographic information.

COS: Some overlap with IRIS, but also worth checking out as this database contains information about funding available from both government and private sources.

Edupass offers scholarships and funding opportunities for international students.
